1. Introduction

1.1 Geographical setting of the district:-

Faridabad was the twelfth district created out of the state of Haryana on 2nd August, 1979. On 04th April, 2005, Hathin tehsil from Faridabad was merged into the newly created district of Mewat (Nuh) and further on 13th August, 2008, Palwal was carved out of Faridabad as a new district. Faridabad is situated between 28° 25' 16" N latitude and 77° 18' 28" E longitude. It is surrounded by Delhi in the North, Gurgaon in the West, Uttar Pradesh in the East and Palwal in the South.

1.5 Detailed map of the district.

2. Drainage System

2.1 Drainage System:-

Faridabad has a wide network of canals and link drains. Prominent amongst them are the Gaunchhi Main Drain, the Buriyah Nallah System, the Gurgaon canal the Ujjina Diversion Drain. These major drains cater to the need of different zones of the district which are listed and explained as under:-

1. Gaunchhi Main Drain
2. Faridabad City Eastern and Western Zone along Area Gurgaon Canal
3. Buriya Nallah System

1. Gaunchhi Main Drain.

Gaunchhi Main drain starts just upstream of R.D. No. 9844 of Gurgaon Canal and traverses a length of 70 K.M. It caters for catchment of 259 Sq miles before outfalling in river Yamuna in Tehsil Palwal. There are a number of link drains which outfall into Gaunchhi Main drain, but very few of such link drains can function when the main drain runs with full capacity. The remaining link drains start functioning only when there is a reduction in the full supply level in Gaunchhi Main drain. In addition to these link drains, there are about 31 direct inlets draining into Gaunchhi Main drain catering for local pockets, and these inlets too do not function till the level in Gaunchhi Main Drain starts falling. The problem is further aggravated by excessive silting in the Gaunchhi Main Drain. During the period of rains, inlets of these link drains and direct inlets give a back flow and upstream start getting flooded and certain village abadies are also badly effected. It takes about one month to clear the water so collected after the inlets are opened. A number of village abadies falling in it's catchment areas have been provided with ring bunds & it is hoped that the flooding problem in this area will be easened to a great extent. However, there is still need to keep a close watch in this area during the rainy season.

2. Faridabad City Eastern and Western Zone along Area Gurgaon Canal:

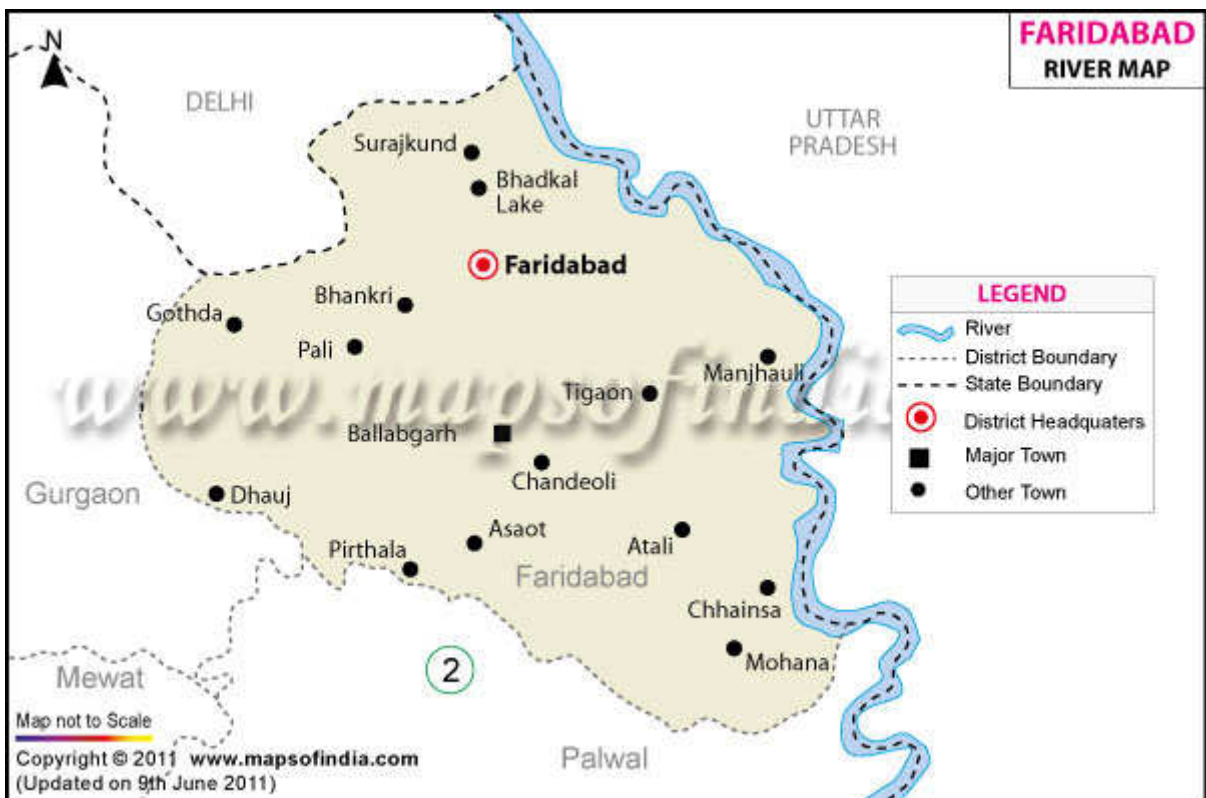

Faridabad city zone consists of the area of old city zone of Faridabad, 21 villages namely Lakkarpur, Anangpur, Sarai Khawaja, Basantpur Movai, Wazirpur, Budena, Baselva, Daultabad, Ajronda, Ismailpur, Agwanpur, Sehatpur, Palla & Atmadpur, Mewla Maharajpur, Ankhir and Badkhal, having population and three inhabited (Bechirage) villages namely Salarpur, Asalatpur and Bandepur. Besides, five sector No. 15, 15-A, 16, 16-A and 18-A of Urban Estates have also been made over to this Zone for maintenance. In the East, river Yamuna flows along the boundary of village Basantpur. Due to floods in the river Yamuna, the areas of villages Basantpur, Ismailpur and Agwanpur are inundated frequently. Two canals namely, Gurgaon canal and Agra canal also pass through this zone dividing this zone in two parts villages Palla, Sahatpur, Agwanpur, Ismailpur, Basantpur Mavai, Wazirpur and Budena on the eastern side and the remaining on the western side of these canals.

Out of these villages, Basantpur, Ismailpur and Agwanpur are dangerously exposed areas and village Sehatpur is moderately exposed area. In the western area of this Zone, Buriya Nallah passing through village Agwanpur, Sarai Khawaja and Etmadpur also outfalls in River Yamuna. Besides, there is one Ankhir Nallah carrying water from hills of Badkhal and Ankhir passing through Barapulla bridge affects the areas of old Faridabad particularly the locality of Raja Garden, Gopi Colony, Baba Nagar, Shiv Colony and effects the area of village Daultabad. Sector 16, 16-A, 17, 14 and 19. Owing to construction of Agra and Gurgaon Canals the water accumulates in this area and absorbed by itself. In village Basantpur, Ismailpur and Agwanpur ring bund have been provided to protect the village abadies and rain water which is accumulated within the ring bund shall be pumped out by Drainage Department. The Commissioner, MCF and Administrator, HUDA shall be responsible for their respective Zones/area to ensure flood control measures.

3. Buriya Nallah System

Buriya Nallah is the main carrier channel for Clearing rainwater / Storm water from Badkhal lake area having length 15.24 KM with designed capacity of 1665 Cs at outfall. It caters to 24.17 Miles catchment area and 2 No. link Drains of 10.00 KM length out falling into it.

2.2 Drainage map of the district

3.Flood Vulnerability in the district.

3.1 Brief history of past floods in the district.

When the water level is below Highest Flood level(HFL) but within 0.50 m, it is said to have reached High Flood Stage. Since 1963, there has been several such occasions in Faridabad. Three of such flooding, on 12/08/76 (206.70 m), 27/09/88 (206.92 m) and on 08/09/95 (206.93 m) is worth mentioning.

3.2 Flood risk and causes of flood in the district.

River Yamunacauses recurrent floods in the district, particularly in the eastern boundary of Faridabad and Ballabgarh tehsils. Other than Yamuna, there are several barsati nallahs spread across the district. Overflowing of some of these local streams also increase the quantum of floods in the area. Excessive rainfall and excessive discharge of water from Tajewala head mainly leads to the over flooding in Yamuna. Various other factors like dam bursts and flashfloods on the upstream of yamuna might result into sudden and devastating floods in the district. Flow of the river is checked by Dakpathar Barrage, Asan Barrage, Hathnikund Barrage, Tajewala barrage and Okhla barrage before it enters Faridabad. Past trends of floods in the district is depicted by the table (Table No. – 12) underneath:-
